Saint Maximilian Kolbe, pray for us.

Philosopher René Girard wrote compellingly on the spiritual origins of violence. If we could see the truth, we'd live for the God who is love, forever in joy. Instead, spiritually blind, we live in competition with each other, defining ourselves by whether we surpass or defeat them. If God doesn't stop us, our eagerness to "win" drives us inexorably to violence, to the demonization of our enemies, and to murder.

The world often directs its resentment and murderous violence along lines of religion, through which cultures identify and apply the meaning of life. Historically, the most vivid hatred has been directed at the Jews, whose distinctive revelation from God on Mount Sinai has since ancient times discontented worldly powers.

Baptized Christians often forsake the righteousness that comes from Christ and in its place seek an earthly vindication. Caught up the pursuit of worldly victory, they help to propagate hatred of Jews and to inflict violence on them.

Police identify Robert Bowers as the murderer of eleven people at Tree of Life Synagogue in the Squirrel Hill neighborhood of Pittsburgh. His public record suggests he's a wicked man of limited sanity. But in Girard's philosophy, the wicked foolishness of one man can also be understood as a manifestation of wicked foolishness in the wider society:

the loss of good purposes for life;

a blindness to the truth;

the failure of family, friendship, and neighborhood to correct or mitigate our wickedness;

the spirits of competition, hatred, and vengeance so widely at work in our public conversation.

Let no Catholic Christian imitate Robert Bowers in word or action. Let no one even partially justify what he has said or done. Instead, consider the heroism of Saint Maximilian Kolbe, a kind of anti-Robert-Bowers. Saint Maximilian, a Polish priest, was interred in a Nazi concentration camp alongside Jews and other Poles. One day in 1941, while looking for prisoners to execute, a camp commander selected a Jewish man, Franciszek Gajowniczek. When Gajowniczek cried out in grief for his wife and children, Fr. Kolbe volunteered to take his place, and was ultimately executed.

Our purpose as followers of Jesus is to give our lives to God and neighbor, whether in a momentary act of loving sacrifice, as did Saint Maximilian, or through long years of loving service, as most of us are called to do. Let no one fail, and let everyone help his brothers and sisters to win this true victory.

—Fr. Dave

ITEMS FOR COLLECTION IN THE NARTHEX

We are no longer collecting old eyeglasses or cell phones in the narthex cabinet. Eye glasses can be recycled at Pearl Vision in Robinson Town Centre. Cell phones can be recycled at Staples on Steubenville Pike. A drawer in the narthex cabinet has been added for the collection of small broken or unwanted religious items. These items will be donated, burned in the Easter Vigil fire, or buried with its ashes. Box Tops for Education and My Coke Rewards will continue to be collected for the school, however the school no longer wishes to collect Campbell's soup labels. Thank you.

ON MISSION FOR THE CHURCH ALIVE

Love Your Neighbor As Yourself – As we hear these words proclaimed in the Gospel today, we encounter them in the context of last week's massacre of 11 souls as they gathered to worship God. Their peaceful morning was shattered by the violence and hatred of one person whose actions cannot be comprehended with reason. While sorrow fills our hearts because of 11 lives lost and so many more affected by this tragedy, the response in our places of worship and in our communities has not been to fight hatred with hatred, but to overcome evil with love – to love our neighbors as ourselves. In times of tragedy, the inspiration of the Spirit of God works overtime to strengthen the resilience of the human spirit so that we not only work to build stronger communities, but also to look deep within ourselves and work to root out anything that seeks to divide us from God and others. This is not only effective as a response to tragedy, but for every aspect of our lives and our relationships we seek to build up. May this call and desire to love our neighbors as ourselves, not only overcome hatred and division in the world, but also strengthen the Church as we continue our journey On Mission for The Church Alive! Visit onmissionchurchalive.org to learn more and to stay informed.
